June Jordan & Suheir Hammad: 'June Jordan, a Black feminist poet and political activist whose award-winning poetry was imbued with advocacy, offered readers and fellow-poets insight into the organic experience of Black-Palestinian solidarity. In 'Moving Toward Home', a poem from Living Room (1985) she wrote: 'I was born a Black woman / and now / I am become a Palestinian'. Palestinian-American poet Suheir Hammad renewed Jordan's words in the title of her first collection of poetry Born Palestinian, Born Black (1996, 2010)'.
